

Masco Home Services expands WellHome

SARATOGA SPRINGS — WellHome, a new program offering home assessments and energy-efficiency home improvement services for existing homes, has expanded locally and nationally this year.

WellHome launched several new markets this spring, including a local office at 184 Edie Road, Saratoga Springs; as well as in Randolph, N.J., Manassas, Va., Atlanta and Houston.

Through its WellHome business, Masco Home Services, a subsidiary of Masco Corporation (NYSE: MAS), plans to become the first national provider of home performance services, including whole home comfort and energy efficiency assessments, recommendations and project implementation. Unlike simple energy auditing services, WellHome will provide assessments and implementation, serving as the general contractor to oversee all home improvement projects.

Additionally, WellHome provides homeowners with a Whole Home Energy Savings Limited Guarantee on their energy savings resulting from the improvements. State and federal tax credits, and utility rebates and incentives, may be available to help pay for these improvements. The recently introduced Home Star program may make additional incentives available to homeowners who make weatherization or energy efficient improvements to their home. Financing is also available.
